WELCOME TO THE MARYLEBONE

The vibrant, bijou feel of Marylebone, one of London's trendiest neighbourhoods, is mirrored in the chic, stylish The Marylebone. A stone's throw from the department stores and boutiques of Oxford Street, Bond Street and Mayfair, the characterful restaurants and stores of Marylebone High Street, The Marylebone harnesses the infectious energy and style of W1 at every turn.

The stylish tone is set by the hotel's chic lobby and Cocktail Bar, characterised by its series of inviting nooks and crannies and playful, elegant terrace. Then there is 108 Brasserie, set on the cobbles of Marylebone Lane - its outside tables, greenery and elegant lantern lighting recalling a Parisian café.

Inside, curved 108 Bar provides a lively forum for locals and guests alike, while for the health-conscious there is the exclusive on-site Third Space gym and 18m pool.

This is hotel living at its most vibrant.

GUEST ROOMS

Elegant guest rooms offering soothing, stylish décor and striking Italian marble bathrooms, effortlessly combine luxury and contemporary comfort.

SUITES

Supremely well-appointed suites range from stylish Studio and Luxury suites to the stunning Terrace Suites, with their beautiful outdoor spaces and skyline views - rivalling any in London for the wow factor.

Few, if any, London hotel suites can match the impact and character of The Marylebone's headline Terrace Suites for style or space, inside and out. Looking out over the central London skyline, these stylish havens provide the comforts of a home from home in one of London's most fashionable neighbourhoods.

THE LOFT

With timber floors throughout, white walls, and ceilings following the outline of the roof, this contemporary attic space is designed for relaxation and ease.

The tailored oak joinery of the kitchen and the wardrobes are complemented by the subtle glamour of marble and brass in the bathrooms. Bright fabrics, bold patterns, and contemporary furnishings complete the look, layered with a selection of books and original artwork.

A photograph of a modern swimming pool. The walls are covered in dark, textured tiles. Two white cylindrical columns support the ceiling. The pool water is clear blue, with a blue lane line visible in the foreground. The lighting is dramatic, with spotlights on the wall and ceiling. The word "WELLNESS" is written in white capital letters across the top of the image.

WALK MARYLEBONE VILLAGE

Marylebone Village is one of the most fashionable districts in London.

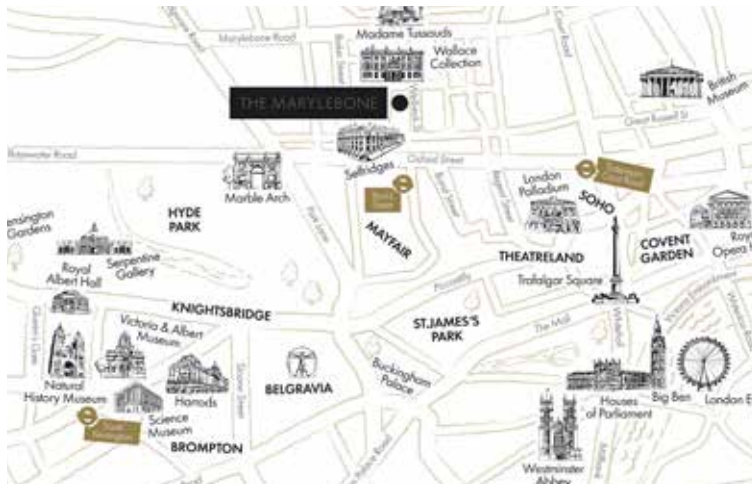

Why 'village'? Because, as a stroll reveals (and this is an area that rewards walkers) it has that sense of concentrated and varied life that such an urban community should bring; with restaurants, boutiques, food shops and a great old-fashioned bookshop in Daunt Books, into which people disappear for hours at a time. It's a place to saunter and take coffee and cake in smart cafés like The Monocle Café, eat at places like Donostia, and a great place for gift shopping. The varied tone has been deliberately kept by the area's three landlords: The Portman Estate, Howard De Walden Estates and the Church Commissioners.

But your walk isn't just about buying, it's also about enjoying Marylebone's air of graciousness. It's in the architecture - grand red-brick terraces, smart squares, cobbled mews houses and its signature mansion flats – and it's in Marylebone's cultural highlights: the brilliant Wallace Collection in Manchester Square, with its Rococo paintings; the concerts at Wigmore Hall, where classical music aficionados gather. Round the corner on Baker Street – yes, Sherlock Holmes' fictional stomping ground - the Everyman is an excellent cinema tending towards art-house movies.

The Marylebone magic goes beyond the High Street. Chiltern Street has been named London's coolest street by Condé Nast Traveller and is full of fashionable outlets. Moxon Street has food outlets like La Fromagerie. Oxford Street is nearby if guests want a complete shopping immersion but Marylebone is for the cognoscenti.
